Hmmm..is that a coincidence? To be truthful, I believe there is a connection between UFOs and fairies. I also believe that UFOs are connected to our Norse - Roman/Greek - Egyptian - Mayan - Aztec myths, but that's a whole other story. Let's briefly talk about elves.

Elves and fairies on certain levels can be somewhat similar. My theory is that elves are a branch from the fairy bloodline. Elves originated with Germanic mythology. In fact if you travel to Europe, there are many people that still believe in elves. Elves were known as minor nature and fertility gods. They were looked upon as youthful and having great beauty. They are somewhat small in stature and have pointy ears. They are known to reside in underground places, caves, wells and springs. Some elves embrace the forest. In Germany's Black Forest it is rumored that a race of elves live in this mystical forest. Other reports from the Black Forest is about a man that was covered in fire, that actually flew from the forest trees to a church steeple. When the townsfolk tried to stone him, he flew away never to be seen again. Some people have called this man on fire, the Fire Elf. It is thought that elves are immortal and have magical powers.
Since I believe Elves and Fairies are actually in the same family, we will look at the variety of fairies and elves, placed together conveniently for you the reader.

Altheia: She is the fairy of revelation. She is protector of criminals that harbor in deception and fraud.
Asrais - Are known to be small delicate female fairies. When these fairies are captured and exposed to sunlight, they will melt away into a pool of water.
Banshee - When someone close in the family is dying, a Banshee, (female spirit) will make a wailing sound. This wailing sound is the signal that death is approaching.
Blue Ladies, Ice Virgins & Mountain Fairies: All are in the same family. They are the size of a wasp, in fact humans mistake them for wasps. They do not like humans touching their hair and will lead humans astray into the Valley of Forbidden Shadows.
Blue Trolls - These are worker trolls, used by high command elves for slave labor. Note: Small blue creatures have been seen by abductees that are used for workers for the 'Grays'.
Boggarts: A breed of half elf and half fairy. These creatures were the same ones that gave a sleeping liquor beverage to Rip Van Winkle (written by Washington Irving), which caused him to sleep for 20 years.
Bogles - Villainous goblins that will do harm to liars and murderers.
Brownies - They love humans and their households. They are known to be benevolent and harmless. If anything, they are helpful.
Bully Bogey: Inspires brutality and oppressive actions. Known to have a fetid breath.
Dwarfs - They are short, stocky and strong. They mature at the age of 3 and at the age of 7, they are old, bearded and gray haired. If they are struck by sunlight, they will turn to stone. They practice magical spells and potions that at times make them immune to daylight.
Dryads - Spirits that live in the trees. They prefer oak trees. Druids utilize Dryads for inspiration.
Elves - There appearance makes them look like a normal man or woman. Small in stature and have pointy ears. They are divided by the Seelie and Unseelie Courts.
Elvenkind of Shangri-La - A Tibetan mystical land that are guarded by the invisible Elvenkind of Shangri-La. These elves carry swords, spears and shields and will defend Shangri-La.
Elven Warriors of the First Blood - They seek conquest of lands belonging to other little people. Their weapons are the bow and arrow, spears, swords, shields. They are able to go from our world into another dimension through a dimensional rift. When people see them on their horses, it looks like they are vanishing, when in reality they are entering another dimensional world. They are known to wear long flowing capes and frightening masks.

Filendieres & Spinners of the Night: They are average human size. They are known to punish the lazy. They will encourage people that work hard and give them strength. They appear as ghosts. They are seen as ladies of long white dresses, extremely beautiful, pale with blonde hair.
Fir Darrig - (Pronounced Fear deang) They play horrific jokes that may cause a human to have a stroke or a heart attack. They can assume any visage they wish.
Flower Myrths - Harmless fairies that live off the pollen of flowers. They are mistaken for humming birds, until people take a closer look and see a human like creature with beating wings.
Gnomes - Earth Elementals. They live underground and guard the treasures and history of the Earth. Gnomes are wonderful metal workers, especially of swords and breastplates.
Goblins - Goblins are an uglier species of fairy. They are small and malicious, and usually band together as they have lost their abilities to operate independently. Usually they are controlled by a Mage for evil doings.
Gobbly Gooks: Small shadowy creatures that usually hide in human's closets and underneath their beds. They are known to enter your dreams and nightmares and will pull pranks on humans.
Gremlins - Tormented WWII pilots by messing with the mechanisms of their warplanes, causing some warplanes to crash.
Gwragedd Annwn - (Pronounced: Gwageth anoon) Are traditionally Welsh water fairies, who occasionally take human men for husbands.
Gwyllion - A Scottish water fairy. They are mostly seen as a hairy men or hideous female spirits who waylay and mislead travelers by night on the mountain roads. Mountain fairies like to sit on rocks on either side of a mountain path and silently watch people as they pass by.
Helpful Hob: These little people help in the kitchen and love to eat bread and buns.
Hobgoblins - Small, grotesque but friendly brownie-type creatures.
Hobbit - Fictional little people created by author J.R.R. Tolkien. See the books The Hobbit and Lord of the Rings.
Knockers (Buccas) - These creatures protect and look over the welfare of miners. They will even making knocking noises where rich ore can be located.
Leprechauns - They have a fond appreciation of gold and will horde gold away from humans. If you capture a leprechaun, they are commanded to grant you one wish and share their wealth with you. They can be tricky and can use your wish against you, if you don't command the wish correctly.
Mer-People- Also known as mermaids. They dwell in the water and are half human from the waist up and have a tail of a fish. They are mesmerizing singers who sometimes lure fishermen to their deaths (See the Lorelei of Germany that lured sailors to their deaths against the rocks of the Rhine River). Also called the Murdhuacha (Pronounced: muroo-cha) or Merrows.
Naga: They can appear as a cobra. When in human form, the female Naga is a graceful and elegant dancer. They will lure a male human to them with their dancing and swiftly turn into a cobra and strike a lethal blow.
Nang-faa & Phi-bird: They are tiny. Their skin is golden. They have jet black hair and are gorgeous womenfolk. Some of their body like arms and legs are made up of feathers.
Nymphs: Two type of Nymphs. The Nereids, which are tall. The Limoniades which are small and live on flowers. Other Nymph breeds are the Dyrads, who live in forests. They are 2 to 3 feet in height. They are known to protect trees.
Pixies - Pixies can shapeshift to look like hedgehogs. They are mischievous fairies who enjoy playing practical jokes on humans. They also love to steal horses to ride.
Phouka - Can appear in various animal forms and are considered to be dangerous.
Primrose: Primrose fairy will touch certain rocks with a primrose and open gateways to fairylands.
Queen Brighid the Bright: She is from Tir Tairngiri - The Land of Promise. She carries a wand, one half of the wand will dealt out authority, while the other half will dealt out purity and justice.

Redcap - One of the most evil of the old Border Goblins. He lives in old ruined towers and castles, particularly those with a history of wickedness. He re-dyes his cap in human blood. Redcaps have been known and seen around the Tower of London.
Shefro - Male fairies who wear green coats and red caps.
Sídhee (shee) - The name for fairies and their subterranean dwellings. A barrow or hill which has a door to a beautiful underground realm of the Tuatha or fairies. J.R.R. Tolkien used this concept with the Hobbit.
Sluagh - The Host of the Unforgiving Dead. The most formidable of the Highland fairies.
Spriggans - Are fabled to be ugly, grotesque and small in their natural state, but can inflate themselves to gigantic proportions. Spriggans are an infamous band of villains, skilled thieves, thoroughly destructive and often dangerous. They are capable of robbing the dwellings of humans, kidnapping human children and exchanging the human child with a repulsive baby Spriggan.
Tempestaries - They are gigantic to human size. They live in cloud castles and are known to eat Souffles & vol-au-vents.
The Willies & the Dancers of the Mist: They are the size of a 'sheaf of mist'. They are vaporous creatures and are known to eat mist. They can shapeshift to a doe or a swan.
Trolls - Have an aversion to daylight. They are frequently observed performing a curious lop-sided dance called 'Henking'.
Trows - Similar to the Trolls and have an aversion to daylight. They also perform the dance known as the 'Henking'. Trolls and Trows are perhaps cousins. Trolls have a flatter head, while Trows have a more angler head.
Urisk - Is a solitary fairy who haunts lonely pools. He will often seek out human company, but his frightful appearance will scare off humans that come into contact with his kind.
Water Fairies - Are the providers of food, nourishers of crops and takers of lives. They combine beauty with treachery and lethality. They can be friend or foe.
Wart Wogs - Grotesque elves that stand at 4 feet in height. They are known to have warts all over their bodies. When they touch a human, they will pass on the wart infliction to their human victim.
Wind Banshee - A beautiful female elf that is invisible to the naked eye and will travel with the wind. When she stops and manifests in front of a human she will talk in a soft voice and tell the human about an impending disaster or tragedy that will occur in their life. She will then fade with the wind and vanish.
Yellow Blurker: Filled with negativity, known to enter your dreams and nightmares.
At some point of time, I plan to travel to Iceland, an island that is filled with little people that live beneath the stones. In Iceland there are elves, lovelings, gnomes, trolls, huldufolk and light fairies. Icelanders take little people very seriously and when they think they are invading the space of little people, they will reroute a shopping mall to keep the little people happy.
If you ever go hunting for little people, use my list to identify what kind of little people you are dealing with. You can then make claim that you are an Elficologist or Fairyologist that has the ability to identify and deal with the small folk you have encountered. Happy little people hunting! Bag one for me!

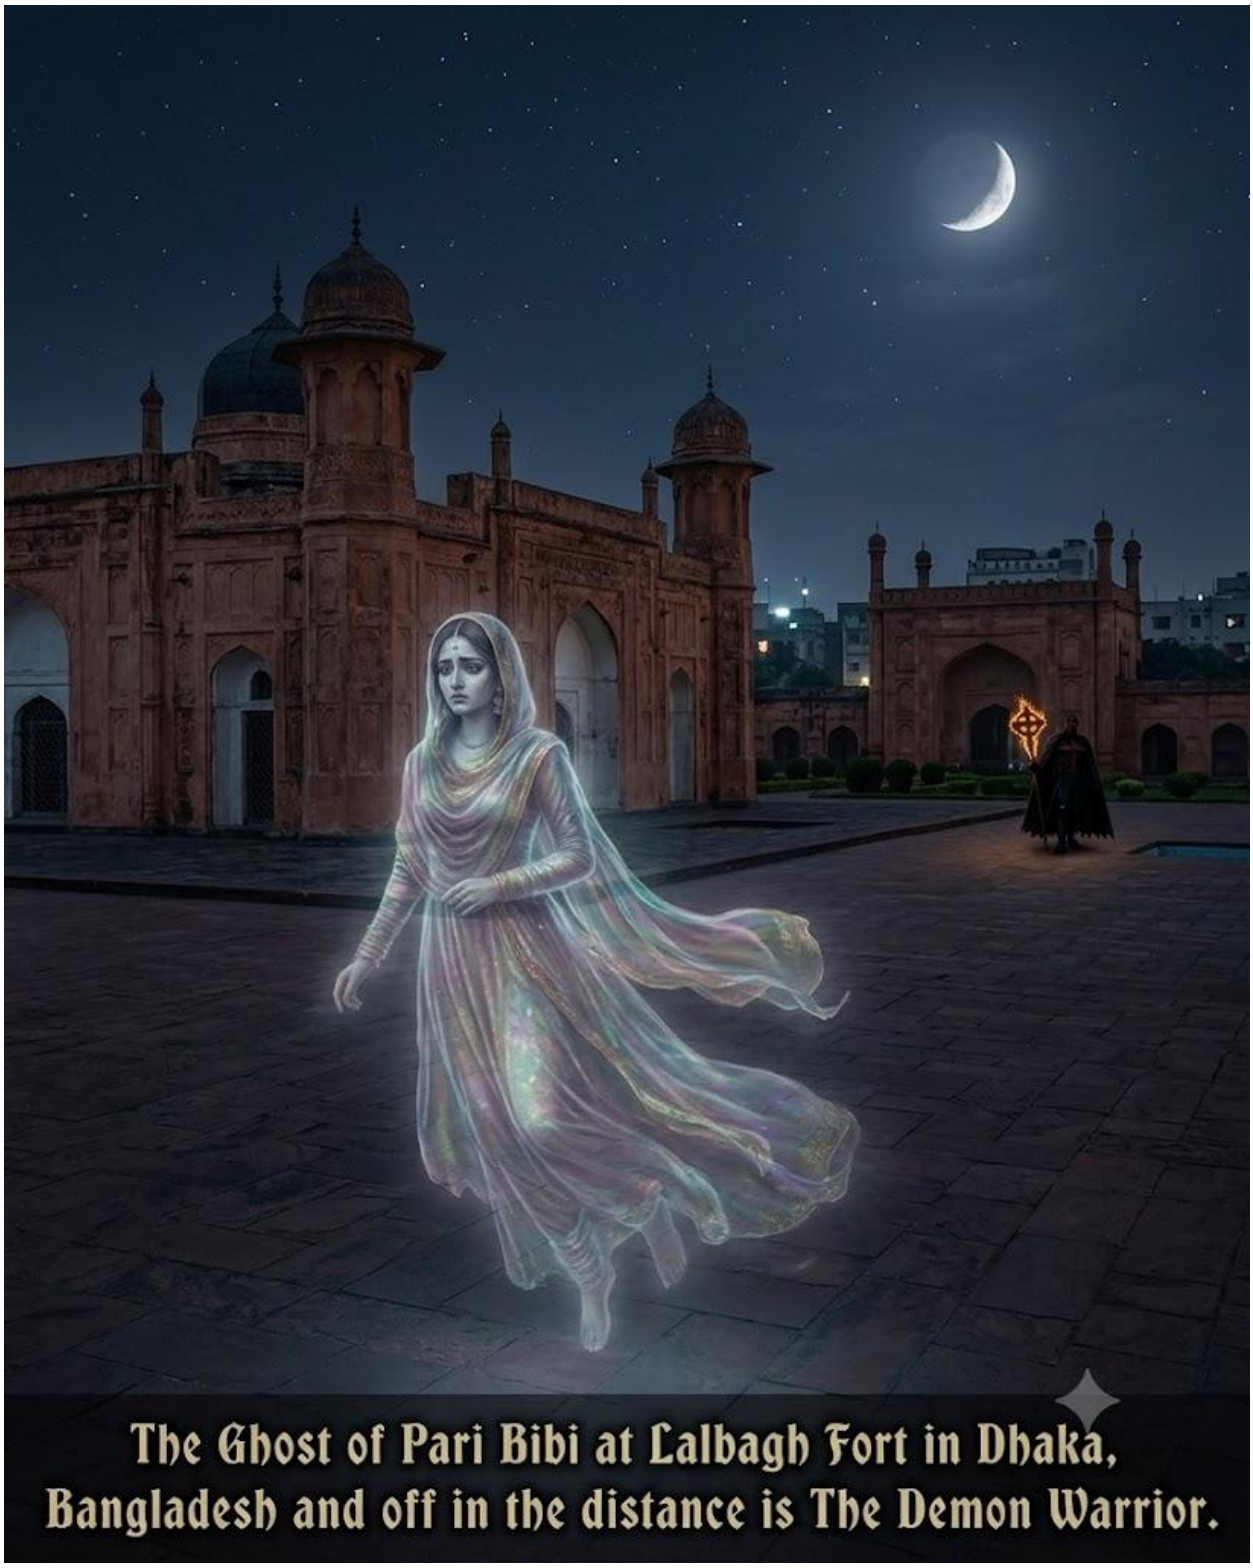
Dhaka is widely considered haunted by locals! The city is filled with old ghost stories. These tales are usually tied to tragic history or folklore about invisible spirits called Jinns. Many people believe Jinns hide in large trees, along with abandoned buildings after dark.

Here are some of the most famous haunted spots in the city:

Lalbagh Fort:
Lalbagh Fort is widely considered one of the most haunted places in Dhaka, Bangladesh. Locals share many spooky stories about the 17th-century Mughal fort. These tales often involve secret tunnels, a ghost on a horse, and the spirit of a princess. The most famous legend features Pari Bibi. She was the beloved daughter of the Mughal governor Shaista Khan. She died tragically in 1684 before the fort was finished. People believe that her ghost wanders around the grounds. Locals say she appears on full moon nights to sing and dance. Another spooky story involves the fort's underground tunnels (Shurongo Path). These mazes were built to trap invaders. During a revolt in 1857, many soldiers ran into the tunnels to hide and never came back. Legend says the British even sent an elephant into the caves, but it never returned. The tunnels are now sealed. Finally, visitors and guards have reported hearing the sounds of a horse and prayers inside the Quilla Mosque late at night.



Dhaka Airport Road:
Many drivers report seeing a shadow-like woman who suddenly appears in the middle of the road and vanishes. The legend centers around a "Lady Ghost" who is often said to appear late at night in the middle of the road—specifically the stretch between the Nikunjo area and the Biman office. According to local lore. Drivers have reported seeing a woman dressed in a white saree suddenly appear directly in front of their vehicles. Many drivers claim to have hit the brakes right before impact, only to find that the woman has instantly vanished. These sudden appearances are blamed for frequent, unexplainable car accidents on that part of the highway. It has been reported that full body apparitions have been seen on this road and the apparitions are from drivers that died on this road. The apparitions look like they are lost.

Dhanmondi 27 Apartment:
Locals tell tales of a specific apartment where a woman took her own life. People say the apartment has flickering lights and gives off a very creepy, bad feeling. Locals also say that at this apartment a portal opened and “Shadow Demons” appeared. At first a Shadow Demon will look like a normal human being, but will look shadowy. Then the shadow person will change its shape. The Shadow Demons will have hunched backs, long claws, razor sharp teeth, open sores & lesions, hair that is unkempt & disheveled. Shadow Demons will scratch you, push you or do something that will hurt you in some way. Shadow Demons are very evil. Some locals say that the Shadow Demons will also choke you and try to smother you, so you can’t breathe.

Bahadur Shah Park:

Bahadur Shah Park in Old Dhaka is widely believed to be haunted. Visitors report strange voices, shadowy figures, and a feeling of uneasiness. These spooky stories come from the park's tragic past. During the 1857 Sepoy Revolt, the British publicly hanged many Indian soldiers—called sepoys—from the trees here. The spirits of these departed fighters are said to visit the park at night. Because of this, the area was historically called Anta Ghar Maidan and was often avoided by locals after dark.

Dhaka University:

At Shahidullah Hall Pond, this old water body adjoining the Shahidullah Hall dorm is the center of the university's most famous ghost story. Because several students have accidentally drowned here over the years, local legends claim that evil spirits or curses pull swimmers underwater, even those who know how to swim. Curzon Hall, this iconic red-brick architecture is one of the oldest and grandest parts of the campus. Older students and staff often tell stories of unsettling feelings, weird noises, and spooky encounters occurring inside its cavernous depths after dark.

What is a Jinn?

A djinn (also spelled jinn or anglicized as genie) is a supernatural spirit in ancient Arabian and Islamic mythology. Originating from the Arabic root meaning "hidden from sight," they are believed to be intelligent beings created from "smokeless fire" who possess free will and live alongside humans.

- Nature: Like humans, djinns are accountable for their deeds and can choose between good, evil, or neutrality. They can be believers or unbelievers.
- Abilities: They are capable of shape-shifting, can take human or animal forms, and are known for exercising supernatural power.
- Origin: The concept bridges both pre-Islamic Arabian folklore and Islamic theology. In the Quran, djinns are mentioned alongside humans and angels.

Usage and Synonyms

In western literature and popular culture, a djinn is typically associated with the word genie—a magical spirit that is often bound to an object (like a lamp) and grants wishes to its summoner.

1. What is your favorite piece of ghost-hunting equipment?
ANSWER: That is a simple answer. My two pieces of equipment that I actually respect are my digital recorder and my camera. I allow my investigators to bring any kind of ghost hunting equipment that they want, such as an EMF Reader, Temperature Gauge, Night Vision Goggles, X-Box Kinect SLS (Structured Light Sensor Camera). With 75 stand-by investigators, I usually have a huge assortment of investigators with all types of ghost hunting equipment. The reason why I like my digital camera and digital recorder is because they produce solid evidence. I will give you an example:

THE EMILY CASE:
We had a case in which the occupant said a ghost named Emily haunted his home and that Emily would drain his energy. When we investigated his home, one of my investigators said that he felt dizzy and fatigued. I wondered if Emily was draining his energy. I said: "Emily if you are listening to me, kiss my investigator on the mouth. Three cameras snapped a photo of an orb on my investigator's mouth, this showed "intelligent movement". I then said: "Emily if you are listening to me, sit on my investigator's lap. We snap a photo and now there was an orb hovering over my investigator's lap. This definitely proved intelligent movement and that the orb was not lint, skinflakes, dew drops, light refractions, dust, etc. This proved the orb was a S.C.F. (Spiritual Containment Field). The camera was the BEST tool, especially when 3 cameras were being used. Another case I had was a case in Del Paso Heights. I took a picture in the backyard and captured two Designer Orbs (Orbs with intricate designs inside them). I enhanced the backyard photo and noticed that when you enlarge the Designer Orbs, that you can see the faces of 2 dogs. I asked my investigator what she saw and she said: "Two dogs." I took the photos to the client and asked her: "what do you have in your backyard?" She said: "orange trees." I said: "Besides that, what else?" She says: "My 2 dogs are buried back there." I then showed her the photos and she started crying. I asked her what she was crying about, she said…"those are my 2 dogs!" Something like that, where the client verifies that her 2 dogs are shown through the Designer Orbs, I can deem as paranormal. With digital recorders, capturing the voice of a ghost is solid proof, especially if you know there are no other people near you to make any kind of sound that will be captured by the recorder. Case example: When we were at a very haunted cemetery, I sat in my car, rolled up my windows, there were no sound in my car or outside of my car and I said to the recorder: "Is there anyone here?" I played it back and a male voice said: "I'm right here!" The ghost was sitting in my car! This was an Class A EVP and there was NO ONE around for me to pick up their voice. When I go to an investigation, I do quick and dirty EVPs, and if the house is really haunted, I am going to capture an EVP in 30 minutes. I walk in and do a digital recorder full sweep of the house, front yard and the back yard, I am very successful in capturing EVPs with this method. Of course, if the house is not haunted, I will not capture any EVPs.

2. Can spirits hurt you?

ANSWER: I have been on over 2500 paranormal investigations and I have never been hurt by ghosts or demons. A lot of my investigators have been scratched, usually in my demonic cases. I cannot recall anyone being hurt by a ghost. Demons..yes, ghosts no. I will tell you what can hurt you, is a person who believes he or she is possessed by a demon. In one of my demonic cases a lady who claimed she was possessed by a demon showed me her demonic bite marks on her body. When she was talking to me, her face distorted and she started looking evil. Her god-daughter who was in the house, claimed she was possessed and when she became possessed, she chased me out of her house with a baseball bat. I'm not afraid of ghosts, nor am I afraid of demons. But, I am sure afraid of a living human being with a baseball bat!

3. Have you ever used unconventional methods or tools (like motion-detectors, cat toys, or laser grids?

Answer: My investigators bring all their toys to my investigations and they have a blast using them. You will only catch me using my camera, digital recorder, maybe my night vision goggles and that's about it. When we go on an investigation, believe me…my investigators have plenty of toys.

4. How do you prepare yourself before an investigation?

Answer: My investigators call me the Demon Warrior. If you have an attachment, I will give you a full submersion baptism, which is a basic form of exorcism. When this is done, the demon will immediately leave your body. I perform a Roman Catholic house blessing. With all of the holy water that I use, prayers that are said, I am fully protected. I have never been possessed or anything. I totally believe in angels, and I always ask my angels to protect me and to help me and it seems to work. I was saved two times by angels. An angel kept me from drowning, and an angel saved me when I rolled my car over a cliff. So, yes, I believe in angels. If the client is another religion, I have "cleansers" that are Greek Orthodox, Christian, two cleansers who are Miwok Native Americans, Wiccan, Spiritual, Metaphysical, Baptist, Buddha, Hindu, etc. I even have a Federal Agent investigator that can provide Voodoo cleansing and we had to utilize her cleansing methods 3 times. We are well prepared and many ghost hunting groups give me their demonic cases.

5. Wow...Skatetown U.S.A., my favorite movie when I was 11. Did you get to meet Patrick Swayze and Scott Baio?

Answer: I had the Guinness Book of World Records in disco dancing. If you go to Disco Wikipedia and scroll down to "dancing" you will see my name. I danced 205 hours, 8 ½ days disco dancing. When I became the Disco King in Sacramento, I was sent down to Los Angeles to audition for these movies, I did not meet any celebrities while I was down there. I was basically an extra and if you blinked, you would have missed me. I made 2 disco movies in Korea and 1 Army movie. I got more screen time in the movies in Korea.

6. Was it a paranormal experience that drew you to the paranormal field?

Answer: YES! Well, it all started when I was a little boy living on Effie Street in Fresno, California. The year was 1962. We lived in an old duplex on Effie Street, it was a corner house. I experienced horrible things at this house. I will describe the paranormal horrors that occurred in order as they happened.

1. The first experience I had at this home was hearing a woman's serene voice calling for me. She was saying…"Dale, come here." She was saying this over and over again. All my life, my parents would call me by my middle name Dale. This female spirit was also calling me Dale. I went towards her voice and looked out the window that allows me to see the orange grove. The voice was coming from the orange grove. I could not see the woman and got scared and ran to my mother.

2. I was riding my tricycle down the street. I stayed on the sidewalk and went about 6 houses up the road. I stopped at one house and looked at the front door. A man steps out to the porch looks at me and draws a shotgun on me. I got scared and went home as quickly as possible. I told my dad and my dad went up to the house, and it was discovered that no one lived there.

3. On one night I heard the sound of something rolling on the sidewalk, this sound was at a distance. The sound kept getting closer and closer. Finally the sound was right at my bedroom window and it stopped. My bedroom window opened up halfway on its own. I looked towards the window and saw a black tea kettle with 4 rollers on the bottom of it. The black tea kettle had a snout, and the snout slowly turned towards me and a spray came out. I was covered in the spray and started hacking and coughing. The very next day I had a bad case of bronchitis.

4. Another night, winged skeleton heads flew into my room, there were about a dozen of them. I started screaming and my father came into the room, and he also had a skeleton head. Finally, he calmed me down and the winged skeleton heads disappeared, and my father's face became normal.

5. I was so scared of all the things that were happening to me, I started carrying a bible with me all the time. I went to the neighbor's dog that was friendly with everyone and started petting him. All of sudden the dog's features changed and from a friendly dog, he became a vicious dog and severely bit me in the hand. I was bleeding all over the place. I ran from the neighbor's house through the orange grove to get to my house. While running through the orange grove, I could hear the sound of a woman maniacally laughing.

6. On another night, the winged skeleton heads came back in my room and I yelled and started hacking and coughing. My mother came in half asleep and gave me a teaspoon of poison. She thought she was giving me cough syrup and had me throw it up. It scared her to death, she thought she had killed me.

7. The final incident I was walking in the living room, and something came up behind me and pushed me into the heater hard. I had burn marks all over my legs from this incident.

My dad received a promotion and before I knew it, we were moving out of the home on Effie Street and moving into a home on Simpson Avenue in Fresno. The incidents stopped. As I got older, I wondered if I experienced childhood night terrors or actually experienced the paranormal. I started reading everything on the paranormal and read many Brad Steiger books. Little did I know that the knowledge I would gain from Brad Steiger's books would eventually help me become a successful paranormal investigator.

This all lead me to having my own paranormal investigative team.

7. What do you do if you encounter an experience or environment that you feel is genuinely dangerous to the people involved?

ANSWER: I have them leave immediately. Especially on my demonic cases. I walked into a home that had bedroom walls covered in human feces. Another home in San Francisco was infested with cockroaches and dead cats in the hallway. Another demonic home, the client became threatening with a large metal flashlight, he acted like he wanted to hit one of us with that flashlight. Another demonic home was a home of hoarders. Believe me, we have seen it all and if I feel my investigators are in danger, I get them out of the house immediately. In many demonic cases, it's usually a mental issue. Out of 10 demonic cases, perhaps only 2 are truly demonic, while the others are mental issues. With some of my mental demonic cases, when I conduct a baptism and cleansing, it will sometimes work, it becomes a "placebo" effect.

8. What do you think happens to our consciousness after we die?

ANSWER: Consciousness is energy. Energy cannot be created or destroyed. Your consciousness is forever. My theory is that your life experiences in the form of energy becomes part of the Akashic Records. Just like my theory on reincarnation. A child is born upon the world, and this baby has a psychic antenna that picks up on the energy of a deceased blacksmith who died in 1887 and the baby when getting older remembers all of the things that this blacksmith did. Well, the baby is NOT the reincarnation of this blacksmith, but merely downloaded the psychic energy from this blacksmith, energy that has been floating around in the atmosphere and now has been downloaded into the baby's mind.

9. Who was your favorite comic book character as a kid?

Answer: Spider-Man. When I worked in the comic book industry I created a character called The Legendary Dark Silhouette. I published a comic book dedicated to that character. I have a piece of artwork in which my character is shaking hands with Spider-Man and that image was published by a Marvel magazine, officiating my character into the Marvel Universe. I was so honored.

10. Is ectoplasm good for you?

Answer: To be honest, I never experienced ectoplasm. The closest I ever got to ectoplasm is when one of my investigators had a cold and sneezed on me. Yuck!

11. What is the single most convincing piece of evidence or personal encounter you have experienced?

Answer: With 2500 investigations under my belt, seeing 4 full body apparitions in my lifetime was amazing! I also was involved with a séance in which a little girl ghost got up close to my face and said "hello". There were 4 male investigators that witnessed this and we were shocked! There were no females in the room when this occurred, it was the voice of a little girl. My mind was blown!

12. What's a dream you're working towards?

Answer: Everything I accomplished, I feel satisfied. I worked behind the scenes with Josh Gates, flew out to Mexico for Penn & Teller, did a lot of Location Scout work for Ghost Adventures. Worked as an undercover Military Policeman for CID (Criminal Investigation Division) DST (Drug Suppression Team), worked as a 97 Bravo Intelligence Analyst in Seoul, Korea with a Top Secret S.B.I. (Special Background Investigation) clearance. I was a professional dancer for Jeff Kutach's Dancing Machine, and we were the first number for Cher in 1979. Traveled to 59 countries and territories. Now I am a podcaster host for 4 podcasts. I love being a podcaster. I don't have to travel anywhere, and I can podcast at the comfort of my home with my two loving dogs Champagne and Iri. I am retired from the California Department of Fish and Wildlife, and I was once a firefighter for the California Division of Forestry which is now CalFire. I did a lot, saw a lot, I am very satisfied with my accomplishments in life.

13. Which ghost hunting tools do you find the most reliable?

Answer: Hey, I already told you this! Next question! (smile)

14. What was your favorite investigation you have done?

ANSWER: I have a few favorites. The Jack the Ripper Candlelight Tour in East London; Tower of London; Stonehenge; Area 51; Uinta Basin (where Skinwalker Ranch is); the Bridge over River Kwai in Thailand; Green Valley Vortex by Colfax, CA; Bigfoot / UFO hunt at Mount Shasta. Awww…the memories.

Croatia is filled with spooky folklore and haunted history. Locals tell tales of cursed islands, abandoned hospitals, and medieval castles haunted by lost loves. Let's take a look at 4 very haunted places in Croatia.

LODRUM ISLAND:
Lokrum Island in Croatia is famously considered haunted. Locals believe it is cursed by Benedictine Monks who were forced to leave the island in 1798. The monks allegedly circled the island three times with inverted candles, dripping wax to form a protective ring. They chanted: "Whosoever claims Lokrum for his own personal pleasure shall be damned!" The curse is tied to a series of historic tragedies:

Those tragedies are the death of Maximilian of Habsburg. The Austrian Archduke bought the island and was executed by firing squad in Mexico. Many people feel that Maximilian's assassination was the working of the curse. Maximilian didn't have the island for that long, before he was executed. Then you have the Crown Prince Rudolf. Members of the same royal family suffered tragic, mysterious deaths. Because of this curse, no humans are allowed to stay overnight on Lokrum. Every night, the last ferry forces all visitors and workers back to the mainland.

VELIKI TABOR CASTLE:

Veliki Tabor Castle in northern Croatia is famous for its ghost stories. The most popular tale is of Veronika of Desinić. She was a local girl who fell in love with a nobleman. The nobleman's strict father did not approve of the romance. He killed Veronika and placed her body into the castle walls. Locals and visitors believe her ghost haunts the fortress. Many claim they can hear her sad cries echoing through the halls, especially on harsh, cold winter nights. People also report strange noises, cold drafts, and a strange procession of skeletons marching around the building. Latham DeAngelo, a tourist from Italy claims that when he walked around the castle, he encountered the spirit of Veronika. She was crying and running quickly. Latham says that his left side was bumped by the spirit of Veronika and his left side remained cold for a good minute.

THE ABANDONED HOUSE IN SKRINJARI:

Locals and urban explorers widely consider the abandoned house in Skrinjari in Croatia highly haunted. The original owners abandoned the property decades ago. Ghost stories claim it was built over a graveyard, a woman was murdered inside, and a little girl drowned in a well. Passersbys report hearing crying babies and disembodied screams. People say they have seen shadowy figures and the ghost of a faceless woman. Local lore claims that anyone who can spend the whole night inside will own the house. However, legends say previous challengers fled the house or lost their minds.

BRESTOVAC SANATORIUM:

The Brestovac Sanatorium in Croatia is widely considered one of the country's spookiest locations. The abandoned tuberculosis hospital sits on Sljeme Mountain near Zagreb. Dark, tragic history and peeling walls give the old building a haunted reputation. Locals tell tales of shadowy ghosts roaming the site. This makes sense when you look at its history. We have a tragic love story. It is said that a doctor built the hospital in 1909 to save his true love, a famous actress named Lady Sram. She eventually died there in his arms. Not only do you have ghosts, but you have ghosts that bleed! Many patients died horrible deaths at the hospital by choking on their own blood. Legend says their ghosts wander the halls, with Lady Šram often seen praying for the sick. During World War II, the sanatorium was used as a military hospital. When opposing forces took the area, they executed the wounded soldiers inside. The hospital shut down in 1968. Today, it is an empty ruin covered in debris and paintball splatters. Exploring the site can be dangerous and is not recommended at night due to falling rubble and potholes.
